Billing Policy

Billing cycle

Subscriptions are billed monthly in advance on the account's billing date. The receipt shows the plan name and the billing period.

Disputing a charge

A customer may ask for any charge posted in the last 60 days to be reviewed. A billing review is a request for the billing team to examine the charge. Opening a review does not by itself refund, reverse or credit anything.

Charges after cancellation

A charge posted after a valid cancellation request is eligible for billing review. The review outcome is decided by a member of the billing team, not by an automated system.

Review timing

Billing reviews are normally decided within 5 business days by the billing team. The customer is told the outcome in their case. Refund processing, where approved, happens in the billing system and may take additional days to appear with the customer's bank.

Synthetic, fictional policy for a demonstration. Document key: billing-policy.
