Cancellation Policy

How to cancel

Customers can cancel a Northfield Digital subscription at any time from Account → Plan → Cancel, by contacting support, or through the support assistant. A cancellation takes effect on the date the request was received, not the date it was processed.

When a cancellation request was not applied

If a customer made a cancellation request that was received but not applied to the account, and the account was billed again afterwards, the request must be honoured. Support may apply the earlier cancellation with the customer's confirmation, effective from the original request date. This correction is available for requests made within the last 30 days.

Customer confirmation

Before applying a cancellation correction the customer must confirm in their own words or by selecting a confirmation control. Staff cannot confirm on the customer's behalf.

What cancellation does not do

Cancelling stops future billing. It does not refund past charges; past charges are handled through billing review.
